Matt McChlery reaches 'Finalist' Position in 2 Categories in the 2016 Premier Digital Awards

On Saturday 12th November 2016, The Brewery in central London played host to the 10th annual Premier Digital Awards and Conference.

Premier Digital exists to help the Christian community make the most of the opportunities digital media has to offer. They aim to envision churches and the Christian community with what could be achieved through digital media; to educate and inform with practical guidance and expertise on a range of digital media subjects; and to link churches, projects, organisations and individuals to increase the impact of our combined efforts and resources.

The Premier Digital Awards seeks to celebrate and encourage excellence in Christian engagement online across 16 different categories.

Matt McChlery, who lives in Wisbech, achieved 'Finalist' position in two categories and attended the dinner in London on Saturday.

A website he runs for his local church www.kingswisbech.org.uk was a finalist in the 'Accessibility' category. Matt also writes a blog and over recent months has specifically been blogging about his experiences of living with faith and cancer and the treatment he has undergone. www.mattmcchlery.blogspot.co.uk achieved finalist position in the 'Most Inspiring Leadership Blog' category and came third overall.

This national awards event received upwards of 800 nominations this year.

Matt says "I am extremely pleased to have been recognised by a national award such as Premier Digital. I am glad that I am making a positive impact in the digital world".
